CommuteInfo Commute Options Awareness Month!

Recap

May is the time we celebrate CommuteInfo Awareness Month.

CommuteInfo Commute Options Awareness Month is a specially designated month used to celebrate and focus extra attention on the promotion of commuting options available to commuters and employers in southwestern Pennsylvania. The overall goal for the month is to further encourage more people regionally to use transit, vanpools, carpools, biking, and/or walking to get to work or school. May was chosen as this special month since it includes National Transportation Week, National Bike Month, National Employee Health and Fitness Day, and National Clean Air Week. CommuteInfo Commute Options Awareness Month was first celebrated in 2004.

Check out some of our accomplishments from this year:

CommuteInfo staff, partners, and collaborating organizations help support the month-long celebration. Thanks to everyone who helped make CommuteInfo Commute Options Awareness Month such a big success!
