Remember Emergency Ride Home During Cold & Flu Season!

Between back to school and temperatures taking a dip, September is prime time for cold and flu season. If you rideshare, you know that getting sick or other types of emergencies can be difficult to prepare for with the other poolers.

All current CommuteInfo registered vanpool, carpool, bikepool participants, as well as many registered transit riders are eligible for the Emergency Ride Home reimbursement program. If you find you need to leave work early for an emergency, simply get yourself home and mail in your receipt to CommuteInfo using this form.

The most important thing is to be safe and plan ahead! If you're in a pool now, discuss your options with your fellow poolers today.

What counts as an emergency?

- Unscheduled overtime or late meeting
- Sickness or accident (self or immediate family member)
- Breakdown of carpool vehicle
- Carpool partners or vanpool driver had to unexpectedly leave work early
